Case Study
Vertical: Construction
Client: Morrison Inc.

🕒 Background

Morrison Inc. is a geothermal heat pump specialist operation located in Duncannon, Pennsylvania. Founded in 1980, Morrison has been providing heating and cooling alternatives in residential, commercial, and educational settings. Morrison has made a commitment to savings for the customer by taking responsibility for the entire job, from excavating to installation.

🕒 Situation

Before Timecard, Morrison's users worked four to six remote sites, which meant that getting the employee's timesheets in on time was difficult. Often the timesheets were illegible, so office workers had to contact the field workers to confirm the information on the reports. Additionally, the field workers filled out their timesheets weekly, rather than daily, which led to inaccurate reporting of time.

🕒 Solution

Morrison Inc has deployed Timecard on the phones of their Geothermal Technicians. They have taken advantage of our SmartFence features to ensure that the techs arrive on site and depart at the appropriate times. Morrison Inc also adds their jobs to their account so that workers can choose from an accurate list of tasks.

🕒 Results:

Morrison's efficiency has markedly improved since implementing Timecard. Field workers are clocking in daily and they are accountable for their location because of the GPS services offered with Timecard. The users are choosing from an accurate list of jobs and their time is recorded automatically, an obvious improvement over the sometimes illegible paper timesheets that wasted time being confirmed. Using one of the many reports that we offer to customers, administrators are able to make daily reports that circulate within the company's management. This has led to improved response time to jobs that need intervention to complete on time.
